5. Spread Information

5.1. Spread is the difference between the bid (sell) and ask (buy) price. The difference is presented in pips and reflects the cost of opening a position and vary depending on the instrument. You will be able to find the value of a pip across all of our instruments, by accessing the Trading Platform through your account with the Company.

6. Overnight Fees

6.1. Overnight Fees are added or deducted from the value of your position and are only charged when a position is held open overnight. The operation is conducted at 00:00 (GMT+2 DST off) and the resulting amount is automatically converted into your Balance Currency.

6.2. The Overnight Fees are calculated once for each day of the week that a position is rolled over with the exception of Friday, when it is charged 3 times to capture the weekend Overnight Fees which are charged in advance (i.e. 7 Overnight Fees in 5 trading days). It is understood that during the first 4 days of opening of the first position, there are no overnight fees charged on any positions. On the 5th day after the opening of the first position, the Company will start charging the overnight fees. You will be able to find the value of the Overnight Fees charged for each instrument by accessing the Trading Platform through your account. Fees may change quickly due to market conditions (changes in interest rates, volatility, liquidity etc.) and due to various risk related matters that are at Company's sole discretion.

7. Commodity and Index Rollover Information and Calculation

7.1. When a futures contract approaches its expiry date, Seekapa.com will rollover all open positions to the next tradable contract at the time specified in the CFD rollover dates section on the Trading Platform.

7.2. Rollover dates are unique to each type of contract being traded and vary in duration.

7.3. Clients with open positions who do not wish to have their positions rolled over onto the next contract should close their positions before the scheduled Rollover.

7.4. Clients will incur the same fees as closing an old contract and opening a new one manually. The fee includes the spread cost of closing the old contract and opening a new contract plus the overnight interest charge (These are the swaps long and swaps short amounts indicated in the asset specifications).

7.5. In most cases, the rate (bid/ask prices) of the new contract will be different from the old contract. Therefore, the company takes necessary precautions in order for the client not to be burdened with the price difference on his new position. As a result, an automatic rollover adjustment will be applied to the client's account to ensure that neither the client nor the company experiences any benefit or disadvantage from the rollover.

7.6. All Rollover Adjustments are calculated in the currency the Instrument is denominated in. If an account is denominated in a different currency the system will automatically convert this to the account's currency using the market rate at that time.

7.7. In order to calculate the rollover adjustment amount, the rates of the old contract and the new contract will be used at exactly the same time before the contract expires. Consequently, the price difference between contracts and the spread will be accounted for. The resulting rollover amount will be then debited or credited to the client's account as a rollover adjustment. The calculation is as follows:

7.7.1. BUY position:

$$(\text{Volume in lots} \times (\text{Bid price (new contract)} - \text{Bid price (old contract)})) + (\text{Volume} - \text{Spread}) \times \text{Conversion Rate}$$

7.7.2. SELL position:

$$(\text{Volume in lots} \times (\text{Ask price (new contract)} - \text{Ask price (old contract)})) + (\text{Volume} - \text{Spread}) \times \text{Conversion Rate}$$
